BREED THEATER.

Pauline Frederick heads the bill at the Madame X, the most moving, the most Madame X, the most moving, the most matting and the most pathetic story ever corecned. Fate is oftimes the cruciest of jestera. Jacqueline Floriot's piteous life story bears vivid evidence of this. Turnod from her home and family by her remorseless husband, a deputy attempt of Parls, she is unable to escape the grass shadow of a fate that crosses her baffled footsteps with ever increasing menace. Fate, in the guise of her husband's content of the part of the of the just suspicions, denies her the right to weapon which destroys a Mackmaller who would ruin the career of her hun-band, now a judge; and fate brings her before the bar of justice where her hus-band presides and places her fight for life in the hands of her son counsel for D. 1931.

DAVIS THEATRE Packed with thrills from start to fin ish, Elsie Ferguson's latest picture, Lady Rose's Daughter, which will be shown at the Davis theatre next Wednesday and Thursday is meeting with chormous suc-cess throughout the country. Finely pre-duced by Hugh Ford for Paramount fe-lease and superby acted, this is one of the most charming photoplays of Miss

Ferguson's repertoire this season The story is not only dramatic, but it exerts a powerful heart appeal. The there deals with the love affair of an English girl who is born out of wedleck, but who finds love and imppiness in the end. Supported by a cast headed by such players as David Powell, Holmes E Herbert, Frank Losco, Warren Coek and Ida Waterman, the picture is admit-

Supported by a talented cast, Dustin in Big Happiness, a super-special which photoplay is an intense drama including many colorful scenes of Paris and Switz-erland before the great war. In Big Happiness, Mr. Farnum comp-ed one of the most difficult roles of his screen career. His success is voiced by critics who are of the opinion that he has excelled himself in this character portrayal,

The story of the picture is an adaptation of the novel Big Happiness, written by the famous British author Pas.
The cast includes Kathryn Adams, Free
Maintesta and Joseph J. Dowling.

AT THE STRAND. Matty Ranbert, well fitted for the reliance in Heritage, a special production, which features this well known depictor of personal parts, will be seen at the Strandagan today and tomerrow. It gripped the interest of the spectators from the start and withheld it throughout.

But it was the performance of the youthful star as "fit" the friendless are thin of the streets, that counted most in the success of the picture. For Marty Roubert in this part made one live his trials and tribulations through his perseverance in the inherited talent that finally wins recognition from leading and therity of the profession. The fact that he wrings the heartstrings of the audience is proof of his amazing virtuosity.

The cost includes Herbert Standing, Augusta Percy, Joseph Burke, Pally Canford and Adelaide Litzallen.

The photoplay was written especially start and withheld it throughout. SIXTH DISTRICT-At Billings' Hall, The photoplay was written especially for the acreen by Willard Mack, the famous playwright, and was directed by William L. Roubert.
